- Existing HMO Landlords and Investors
- International Property Investors
- Serviced Accommodation Hosts
- Portfolio Landlords
- Landlords who wish to earn more income than a family rental using HMO or Serviced Accommodation
- Landlords who no longer wish to self manage
- Landlords with an empty property and unsure what to do
- Landlords who wish to change their management agent

Legislation and the year ahead

A raft of legislation in the last 5 years looks as if it will continue going into 2024 and beyond. No part of the sector will remain untouched as political maneuvering extracts as much political gain as possible at the expense of landlords and property owners who are part of this important sector. We are yet to see what the new change in Government brings.

We are painfully aware of rising interest rates for mortgages, increased prices of goods, services and salaries not to mention the logistics of obtaining materials through the normal channels

Our role as Property Managing Agents is to rent, guide and advice our landlord clients. As Agents we have been placed on the front line and remain liable in many circumstances with current and new legislation. As such, we have invested in increased administration and compliance support to protect both you and ourselves

Rents are rising and are projected to rise going forward however tenants do not have an open cheque book. We can continue to combine short and long stay renters to mitigate the risk of non-payment and filling gaps in occupancy. We have upgraded our management model with four service levels to offer more options to landlords with different needs and at different parts of their property investing journey. We have integrated our advisory services into the management business for the first time. The document summarises the new packages, services and pricing plans for 2024

At Stay&Co, we ensure we stay current with Legislation and compliance regulations. We work for our Landlords to keep both you and your tenants safe a protected
